

0 - LEAD-IN (SS)

“What’s a favor you’ve asked of someone or someone has asked you?”

“Think about what your partner said— would you do that favor if someone asked you?”

5 - PREDICTION (SS)

1. “someone is asking someone else a favor”
2. play audio
3. Were your predictions correct?

9 - DETAIL (S)

Give handout to other Ss.

Task. PC. WCFB.

13 - LF (T-WC)

How do you feel when someone does a favor for you; or maybe just does something nice for you?

grateful

Board answers with room to annotate.

What might you say to show that you’re grateful?

- “I really appreciate it.”
- “I’m really grateful.”
- “It’s so kind of you.”
- “I don’t know how to thank you.”

Would you say these for something small?

How formal are these? All the same? Which is more formal?

I don’t know how to thank you.

Board answers with room to annotate.

What are some ways you could respond?

- X “I’m happy to help.”
- I “Don’t worry about it.” (no worries)
- X “It’s no trouble at all.”
- F “It’s my pleasure.”
- I “It’s no problem.”

How strong are these?

How formal are these?

How might you make them less formal?

Omit the subject.

For all of these, can part of the phrase change? What part?

the subject

So these are “fixed phrases”.

Elicit/mark the stress.
